Supervisor Ed Romaine joins Maria Frey of Executive Consultants of New York at the first session of the Town's Job Search Boot Camp.

Farmingville, NY - On April 30, Supervisor Ed Romaine was the guest speaker at the first session of the Town's "Job Search Boot Camp," a series of eight, high intensity training classes that will provide job hunters with the right tools for attaining a job. This free program is sponsored by the Town's Division of Economic Development and provides the opportunity for attendees to learn the proven fundamentals of finding a job, how to write resumes, interview strategies and how to network and make the right connections that will get them noticed and hired. More than 60 residents participated in the first session.

"The Job Search Boot Camp is a great opportunity for people to learn the best methods and strategies to land the job they want," said Supervisor Romaine. "I commend our Division of Economic Development for their efforts to help get people back into the workforce and I wish all the participants the best of luck."

Job Search Boot Camp is run by Maria Frey of Executive Consultants of New York, an organization that specializes in career development and networking. The Town has recently worked with Executive Consultants on a similar program, the "Going Places Network by Walmart," for the Women's Services Division.

On June 27, the Town's Division of Economic Development and its business advisory council will host the Jobhaven.org Job Fair in the auditorium at Town Hall from 5:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. The event will give job hunters the chance to meet face-to-face with representatives from companies in and around Brookhaven who are looking to hire qualified candidates for a wide range of positions. Companies will be set up at tables and booths throughout the auditorium. There will also be 15 minute workshops covering a variety of subjects important to job hunters. For more information about the Jobhaven.org Job Fair, or to reserve a business recruitment table, call the Brookhaven Town Office of Economic Development at 631-451-6563.
